Trip To Washington

On the afternoon of July 10th, we a little party of residents of Atlantic and Sanford, were gathered on the shore at the latter place bidding farewell to a group of friends. We were spent a few days with relatives at Drummond for our long pleasant trip up the Potomac river. Soon the last Mrs. Dale, of Unincoteague, who has been visiting Mrs. C. F. W. Hall view, the familiar trees and land-firming report of special commissionmer until they faded into the blue horizon and we were well on our journey. The sail across the bay was made under very favorable circumstances, and almost before we had Mr. Arthur Tappen, while painting realized it we had entered the broad cree referring cause to commiss the house of Mr. A. The river so ly for us to enjoy the exquisite scenery on both sides; we think it one of for payment of board, costs and for the most beautiful rivers we ever had payment to said Humphreys. the pleasure of viewing. Here we would pass high wooded cliffs, rising abruptly from the water's edge; there a grassy hill sloping gently to the funding bonds. Order confirming re-

There it stood on a high hill overlooking the river surrounded by the same quaint old garden whose flowers have blossomed there for over a century. In the park below the great commander had doubtless many times

Some one has said that Washington is a city built in the woods, and indeed that is an impression that one gets of the city. The beautiful, shady trees and parks as well as the public suildings go far toward making our capitol what it is, one of the fairest cities of the world. The deepest impression made upon one visiting the city for the first time is the greatness of our national hero. There as never before we realized the verity of the words, "First in war, first in peace and first in the hearts of his country men." How truly noble must have been the character whose memory has come down thus far and will go down through all ages as the father of so great a nation. We visited the Capital, Congress ional Library, White House, Treasury, and many other buildings of importance. It is impossible to do more than mention them here, suffice it to say, let anyone who has not visited our National Capitol go there at his first opportunity. It is well worth all the trouble of going there and one never regrets having been. We left Washington one afternoon very tired, but having enjoyed the words. After the city trip was to sight we could for some time see Washington's monument looming against the clear blue sky, Crowder said that Oak Grove Church haze of the distance. A short stop made at Alexandria and two nights spent at Colonial Beach, the popular summer resort of Washingtonians.

In conclusion we wish to expres our grateful remembrance of the many kindnesses shown us by people with whom we met and especially the courtesy of the Capitol Yacht Club, of Washington. We also unanimously express our sincere thanks to Captain Wm. R. Drummond, who is A No. 1 captain, Mrs. C. Corbin, our charming chaperone, Messrs. W. S. Warner, banjoist, and J. J. Warner, violinist, who rendered delightful entertainment with their music, and last but not least, at meal time, Esau, our valued cook.

Tribute of Respect.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of Oak Grove Church wishes to pay a last tribute of respect to the nemory of Mrs. Mary E. Turlington, who died at Fair Oaks on July 11, 1905. We shall miss this dear sister and ellow-worker who for many years has

At the District Missionary meeting held at Oak Grove in June, she was one of our most enthusiastic members, diligent and hospitable in preparing for the entertainnent of delegates and visitors, anxious for the success of the meeting. To her husband, two children and near relatives we extend our sincere sympathy in their sorrow. To be deprived of her sweet companionship and tender care is an irreparable loss. May God comfort and guide them. Mrs. Lou Martin,
